

On April 9, 2018, at 10:50 AM, David Tucker <dnttanakh@aol.com> wrote: Thank you Michael, My Book , The Hard Bargain, just released and can be found on Amazon.com. - books.
My current website is : www.thehardbargainbook.com.
Look forward to the next reunion.
David

"The Hard Bargain will rightly take its place on the top shelf of a large bookcase of memoirs about fathers and sons."

AVAILABLE IN HARDCOVER, SOFTCOVER, AND KINDLE EDITIONS AT AMAZON.COM

On Aug 16, 2017, at 7:29 PM, David Tucker <dnttanakh@aol.com> wrote: Hi Michael, Thanks for all your news updates about our past classmates.

I thought that you and my high school peers might be interested in some recent projects that I have been involved with these past few years.

First, I and my co-author {Burton Spivak} have written a memoir concerning my "father-son" relationship. The book, A Hard Bargain, is a clash of wills between a hard driving son and a famous father, Metropolitan Opera Tenor Richard Tucker. The book should be commercially available by November 2017.

Second, I have commissioned a playwright to develop a dramatic comedy based on this memoir to hopefully reach a Broadway audience in the future. We have a work-shop reading booked at the JCC in NYC on October 19 and 20 of this year. Very exciting.

I know that many of my classmates remember my dad, and these projects might interest them.

All the best,

David Tucker

On Aug 16, 2017, at 10:25 PM, Mike Arlow <mike@arlow.com> wrote: Hi David,

That is terrific, and I will post it under Announcements and Personal Announcements (for maximum viewing). Good for you !!!

I remember your father, your older brother, and your younger brother (whom I rescued from the Saddle Rock Village Pool after he jumped into the deep end of the pool after football practice and abruptly doubled up with cramps — I was the head lifeguard and pool director) very well. When your play is ready to open, I will be there — please keep me in the loop. *Have plane, will travel.

I, too, had a famous father, Dr. Jacob Arlow, who was a very difficult person to live with. I also had plans to write an exposé on him and my mother, and present a one person play off Broadway or at a meeting of the American Psychoanalytic Society and/or the New York Psychoanalytic Society. Right now, I am working with Dr. Arnold Richards to publish my father's papers. I am also scanning and then destroying my father's patient notes. Combine that with my travels, travelogues (of which I am years behind on), the website for our high schools, taking care of my wife, Julia, who has some recent medical problems, my current (non-paying) job as the Treasurer of the Willoway Condominium Association, and my mandated monitoring for being an United States Atomic Energy Commission researcher, there is little time left for sleep. I find that I am busier in retirement than when I was working full time.

Many thanks for hearing from you and best regards,

Mike Arow

248-540-8400